EQUALIZER OF OPPORTUNITIES

WHEN the Creator dispensed the Earth's resources, with some regions He was lavish. With others He was sparing.

Even in Alabama, some sections of the State are more richly endowed in God-given resources than

But in Alabama every section, every community, has its compensations. Though Alabama's richest minerals abound in its hills, in its broad valleys lie its most fertile soils. Swift streams, traversing practically every section of the State, provide energy for vitalizing the State and a mode of transporting its commerce to the sea; while equable climate and abundant rainfall are state-wide advantages.

In man-made advantages, as in those God-given, we find the same superiorities and the same compen-

But no resource or advantage, God-given or manmade, serves to equalize the opportunities of communities for social and economic advancement more portunity for growth and development as it does to the larger towns and cities. It equalizes the opportunities of all to attract new industries, homeseekers and investors. To the home in the small town it brings the same convenience and relief from household drudgery as in the metropolis. And even on the farm, it gives to agriculture the same motive force at the command of industry and to the farm homemaker the same comforts and convenience of her city

SICK HEADACHES Mr. Charles F. Todd, of Estesburg near Waynesburg, Ky.,says: "I was suffering with nervous headaches. About once a week I would have these headaches, and have to quit work, and go to bed for about twenty-four hours. I would have pains in my neck, and right behind my right ear. "A merchant at Estesburg told me to try taking Black-Draught, which I did. "It relieved me. From that time on, I would take Black-Draught as soon as I felt like I I was going to have one of those headaches-and they wouldn't "Every few weeks, I take three or four doses of Black-Draught, and I feel so well, and do my work, and don't lose any more time with headache.
